

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

House bill No. 31 (file No. 381), entitled

A BILL to prohibit and prevent adulteration, fraud and deception in the manufacture and sale of articles of food and drink.

Section 1. The People of the State of Michigan enact, That no person shall, within this State, manufacture for sale, offer for sale or sell any article of food which is adulterated within the meaning of this act.

Sec. 2. The term food, as used herein, shall include all articles used for food or drink, or intended to be eaten or drank by man, whether simple, mixed or compound.

Sec. 3. An article shall be deemed to be adulterated within the meaning of this act: (1) If any substance or substances have been mixed with it, so as to lower or depreciate or injuriously affect its quality, strength or purity; (2) If any inferior or cheaper substance or substances have been substituted wholly or in part for it; (3) If any valuable or necessary constituent or ingredient has been wholly or in part abstracted from it; (4) If it is sold under the name of another article; (5) If it consists wholly or in part of a diseased, decomposed, putrid, infected, tainted or rotten animal or vegetable substance or article, whether manufactured or not, or, in the case of milk, if it is the product of a diseased animal; (6) If it is colored, coated, polished or powdered whereby damage or inferiority is concealed, or if by any means it is made to appear better or of greater value than it really is; (7) If it contains any added substance or ingredient which is poisonous or injurious to health: Provided, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to mixtures or compounds recognized as ordinary articles or ingredients of articles of food, if each and every package sold or offered for sale be distinctly labeled as mixtures or compounds, and are not injurious to health.

Sec. 4. No person, by himself or his agents or servants, shall manufacture for sale or offer or expose for sale, or sell, as butter, and the legitimate product of the dairy or creamery, any article not made exclusively of milk or cream, but into which the oil or fat of animals [or any other oils] not produced from milk, enters as a component part, has been introduced to take the place of cream. Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, and the costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail, or the State House of Correction and Reformatory at Ionia for not less than ninety days nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court for each and every offense.

Sec. 5. No person shall manufacture, deal in, sell, offer or expose for sale or exchange, any article or substance in the semblance of, or in imitation of cheese made exclusively of unadulterated milk or cream, or both, into which any animal, intestinal or offal fats or oils, or melted butter in any condition or state or modification of the same, or oleaginous substances of any kind not produced from unadulterated milk or cream shall have been introduced. Whoever shall violate the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars and the costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail or the State House of Correction and Reformatory at Ionia for not less than ninety days nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court for each and every offense.

Sec. 6. Every manufacturer of full milk cheese may put a brand upon each cheese, indicating "full milk cheese," and no person shall use such a brand upon any cheese made from milk from which any of the cream has been taken.

Sec. 7. The Dairy and Food Commissioner shall procure and issue to the cheese manufacturers of the State, on proper application, which application shall be made on or before the first day of October, A. D. 1895, and on or before the first day of April in each year thereafter, and under such regulation as to the custody and use thereof as he may prescribe, a uniform stencil brand, bearing a suitable device or motto and the words "Michigan full cream cheese." Every such brand shall be used on the outside of the cheese, and upon the package containing the same, and shall bear a separate number for each separate factory. The said commissioner shall keep a book in which shall be registered the name, location and number of each manufactory using the brand, and the name or names or persons at each factory authorized to use the same. No such brand shall be used on other than full cream cheese or packages containing the same. The commissioner shall receive a fee of one dollar for each registration, said fee to be paid by the party applying for the same, which amount shall be accounted for and used as a part of the fund appropriated for the enforcement of the laws of this State with which the Dairy and Food Commissioner is charged.

Sec. 8. No person shall [knowingly] offer, sell or expose for sale, in any package, cheese which is falsely branded or labeled.

Such brands or labels shall be in letters not less than one inch in length and shall be followed with the name of the maker and factory, and the location of such factory.

Sec. 11. Every dealer or trader who, by himself or agent, or as the servant or agent of another person, offers or exposes for sale, or sells, any form of lard substitute or adulterated lard as hereinbefore defined, shall securely affix or cause to be affixed to the package wherein the same is contained, offered for sale or sold, a label, upon the outside and face of which is distinctly and legibly printed in letters not less than one-half inch in length, the words "Lard substitute" or "Adulterated lard" or "Lard compound," or other appropriate word which shall correctly express its nature and use.

Sec. 12. The having in possession of any lard substitute or adulterated lard, or lard compound, as hereinbefore defined, which is not branded or labeled as hereinbefore required and directed, upon the part of any dealer or trader, or any person engaged in the public sale of such articles, shall for the purpose of this act be deemed prima facie evidence of intent to sell the same.

Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and when convicted thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail or State House of Correction and Reformatory at Ionia for not less than ninety days nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 15. No packer or dealer in preserved or canned fruits and vegetables, or other articles of food, shall sell or offer for sale such canned articles, unless such articles shall be entirely free from substances or ingredients deleterious to health, and unless such articles bear a mark, stamp, brand or label bearing the name and address of the firm, person or corporation that packs the same. Senator Smith, on behalf of the Committee of Arrangements, presented the following:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Ruler, in his inscrutable wisdom, has seen fit to remove from his field of usefulness and from among men, the Honorable Francis B. Stockbridge, late Senator in the Congress of the United States; and

WHEREAS, It is becoming to the Representatives of the State he represented in Congress to give expression to their feeling of great loss, and the high regard in which he was held by his fellow citizens; and

WHEREAS, We recognize in the late Mr. Stockbridge a man of the people who, by his indomitable energy and nobleness of character, rose to the highest position in the gift of the people of this State; and

WHEREAS, We recognize the fact that while Mr. Stockbridge was honored by the people of the State of Michigan, the people were honored by his painstaking and untiring efforts in everything pertaining to Michigan as a State, and in those lines which were for the best interest of the general government; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Legislature of Michigan of 1895, do hereby record our feeling of loss, our high appreciation of the noble character of our late Senator, and our high estimate of Mr. Stockbridge as a man, as a citizen and as a statesman; and be it Further resolved, That a copy of this preamble and resolution, suitably engrossed, be sent to the widow of our late Senator, to whom in her great affliction, this Legislature desires to tender its most profound sympathy.

The question being on the adoption of the resolutions,

Senator Smith addressed the joint convention as follows:

Mr. President, Members of the Legislature, and Fellow Citizens:

The announcement of the comparatively sudden death of Michigan's United States Senator, Francois B. Stockbridge, one year ago, spread sorrow among the citizens of our commonwealth. It has been fittingly said by an eminent statesman of this country that, "Silence is the best exponent of individual sorrow, and the heart that knoweth its own bitterness shrinks from exposition of its affliction." However, I do not understand that we are here assembled to express our profound grief because of the death of our distinguished Senator, but to consider briefly his conspicuous traits of character and his true manhood, which we can profitably study and emulate. So far as I am personally concerned, I confess my incompetency to draw a faithful picture of the splendid characteristics of this noble man. Still, a moment's reflection at this time may aid us to more clearly understand and appreciate his elevated manhood, loving disposition and unalloyed humanity. It is necessary to employ some standard to determine the worth and capability of the character of any person or subject under consideration. Measured by the highest and most exacting test, the life of Senator Stockbridge will stand out as honest, great and useful.

The deceased Senator was born at Bath, in the State of Maine, in the year 1826. His father was a practitioner in medicine, and having a limited practice and income was unable to assist the son to a college education. The young man, at the age of fourteen, full of ambition, started out for himself and secured employment in a dry goods store in the city of Boston, where he remained until the year 1847, when his expanded ambition and hope led him to believe that there were wider opportunities and scope for industrious young men in the interior of this great country, and he thereupon made a shift to the city of Chicago, where he embarked in the lumber business upon his own account. In 1857, the great financial crash came, and he used his entire property to satisfy his indebtedness. His high commercial honor and persistent industry enabled him to obtain accommodation in a sufficient amount to re-establish himself in business in Chicago, which he conducted continuously until 1871, when he began operating in lumber at Saugatuck, Allegan county, this State, where he remained until 1877, when he made his final move to the beautiful village of Kalamazoo, where he lived until his death.

He had large lumber interests in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and on the Pacific coast, in which Gen. Alger was associated with him. In Kalamazoo, he invested money in substantial sums in manufacturing enterprises and in every way practicable aided in the employment of the laborers and mechanics of his resident city. He never loaned a dollar of money for the mere interest which it might earn, but used it at all times in such a manner as to benefit the greatest number of his countrymen, with a fair profit for himself. His whole life was a beautiful example of modest generosity and christian charity. No honest needy man, woman or child ever applied at his door for assistance without receiving help and encouragement from his kind hand and heart. The purity of his purpose and love of mankind were evidenced in every movement of his noble career. He would have died a multo-millionaire, but for his numerous charitable contributions while living. I am authentically informed that for years before his death, the account of "Gifts and charities" was the largest personal account upon his books. For instance, in the year 1893, his books show that his living expenses were $21,000, while his gifts and charities for the same year amounted to the magnificent sum of $30,000. He gave to Albion College at one time, $5,000. Hobart Hall at Ann Arbor, Michigan (an Episcopal institution), in 1887, $10,000. He equipped one room in the Garfield Hospital at Washington at a cost of several thousand dollars. He gave $10,000 to a woman's hospital in Chicago, $10,000 to the Y. M. C. A. at Kalamazoo five or six years before his death. He made frequent contributions to the children's home at Kalamazoo, which was remembered in his will to the amount of $30,000. It was his custom to ascertain from the church people in his city the names of the unfortunate poor there, and have sent to them periodically food and money to relieve them of their suffering and misfortunes. Many church societies, financially embarrassed, have been the happy recipient of his unostentatious bounty. In fact, the whole charitable work of his life was undemonstrative.

As an illustration, he at one time became deeply interested in a poor man residing in his city who was about to lose his home on mortgage foreclosure proceedings. Senator Stockbridge knew the man personally and had boundless confidence in his perfect integrity. He dispatched a messenger for a gentleman, whom he requested to act for him, so that Senator Stockbridge would not be known as the moving spirit in the matter. Through the intervention of this outside party, he paid and satisfied the mortgage and obtained a discharge thereof, which he had delivered to the embarrassed mortgagor, whose gratitude for this kindly act was only equalled by the joy and happiness of his unknown benefactor. A faithful narrative of the frequent evidences of his impulsive generosity might be indefinitely continued. He sincerely believed in bestowing his gifts of money and property during his own lifetime in order that he might earlier assist the needy, and personally enjoy the relief afforded by his own hands, simply intending to retain a financial competency at old age, provided that he had lived the matured life of four score years, which it is evident from the management of his business affairs he anticipated.

He was a thorough student of finance and the great material and commercial interests of the country, and possessed an aptitude and sagacity for a great business career. He studied his investments closely, and, when made, always evinced stalwart confidence in their ultimate success. His financial prosperity was the natural fruit of his unceasing energy and skill. In fact, whatever he undertook, whether in public or private life, was regarded by him as certain of success. This unabating confidence coupled with his eminent personal fitness, produced in all who knew him a corresponding faith in his capability, and this was the foundation of his political preferment.

He was elected by the Michigan Legislature in 1887 to a full term in the United States Senate, and received the grateful compliment of re-election to the same high office in 1893, but only served about one year and two months of his second term, having passed away on the 30th of April, 1894, after a very brief illness while temporarily in the city of Chicago. While in the United States Senate, as well as before, he was a fearless advocate of what he conceived to be right and was always alert to the interests of his constituents. He was capable of stating a proposition with convincing clearness and never failed to secure for the State of Michigan what he believed would most effectually promote the interests and welfare of her citizens. While in Congress, seven years and two months, he obtained larger appropriations in the aggregate than were ever secured for this State by any other Senator during a similar period of time.

Both in and out of office, he was respected by every acquaintance. His home was a model of domestic felicity and love, and his sunny disposition and unpretending hospitality were a perfect guaranty of comfort and enjoyment to the many, many friends who were his welcomed guests.

His private life was exemplary, his public life honorable and true. He tried to never feel want and never want feeling. He believed in and practiced that great cardinal virtue, charity, which is a mantle of heaven's own weaving lent us to cover our neighbor's imperfections.

The tongue of praise is incapable of doing his memory justice. His place can never be filled.

When the columns and arches supporting this great capitol structure shall have fallen, the broken fragments will bear evidence of a former magnificence. So with our esteemed friend, his body, now divested of animation and life, tells the story of a loving husband, a perfect representative of the people and a princely patriot.

His Excellency, Governor John T. Rich, then spoke as follows:

Senators and Representatives, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is fitting that these resolutions be offered here tonight; it is especially fitting that there should be offered in this room, where he whose memory we meet to commemorate, was twice nominated and twice elected to a seat in the highest legislative body in the world.

Senator Stockbridge was a noble specimen of the New England contribution to Michigan citizenship and statesmanship. He came here not only to better himself, but the State was better. He rendered material aid in material developments; he contributed to every good thing that came in his way and served the State with honor in the Senate of the United States. He partook somewhat of the rugged character of the country he came from, and like Gen. Cass, Senator Chandler and Gov. Blair the very efforts he had to make in his youth to obtain a livelihood enabled him and them to succeed in the west had much to do with his success here. It seems to me that Senator Stockbridge in his advancement was typical of the progress and the advancement of the State itself. He came here young, poor in purse but rich in strength and perseverance and in noble aspirations to succeed. He came here when our State was young and the main thing to look for was the future as they had little to show for it in the past. My acquaintance with Senator Stockbridge was comparatively limited, but every day and every hour that I was thrown in contact with him, increased my personal respect for him. He was candid in all that he did, and I do not now remember of his ever doing or advocating anything in his line of duty that he was not willing should be published in the press the next day. During the last few years he lived it was my fortune to be thrown in contact with him a great deal, and I found him absolutely honest and candid. He was as free from suspicion as any man it was ever my lot to meet; he had the courage of his conviction and stood by his principles under all circumstances. No better example of that can be given than in the sumptuous mansion in which he resided in Washington. He was surrounded by those who believed in wine, and while the table was laden with everything else wine was excluded therefrom.

On one or two other occasions I had reason to know of his character. He was not without political ambitions. In 1880 he aspired to be chief executive of the State of Michigan, but he believed it his duty to devote himself to an invalid wife; so well was that duty carried out that his invalid wife survives him. I have met him in other places. He could dictate a business proposition as clearly as any one I ever met. Without any pretense to oratory, he evidenced such kind feelings, such marked friendship for those he met that he had strong attractive powers for all those with whom he was thrown in contact. I have heard him on the stump in the last campaign, without attempt at oratory, get up before a large audience and state his views and seemed to draw them as much to him as any man in the campaign without effort or affectation. In the performance of the arduous duty as United States Senator he carried the same good hard common sense that had characterized him through life. While he made no attempt at oratory in the Senate, no man's judgment upon any proposition with relation to this great country of ours commanded more respect than his. While there it made no difference how humble a man who went from Michigan, he had but to send his card to Senator Stockbridge and he would have as cordial welcome as though he came from the aristocracy or from a foreign country. It was done in a way which was attractive and made people not only respect but love Senator Stockbridge. I think the country and State owes much to him. His example and success in life is an inspiration to the youth of our land. He had no more to start in life than many of the young men who are within the hearing of my voice. It seems to me that no man ever gathered that wealth more fairly and honestly and distributed it better than Senator Stockbridge. While it is an inspiration to the youth, it is also a rebuke to those who complain because so many are rich, while they are poor, because there is none but what have had the same opportunities before him as were before Senator Stockbridge.

Senator Stockbridge inherited from his ancestors industry and thrift which the circumstances made necessary, brought that very quality west with him, and they contributed much to his success in life. Do you believe, or does any one believe, that if he had had a wealthy father, everything contributed, every opportunity for a college education, and had had no desire to do anything, that he would have acquired what he did? Young man, it is not always a misfortune to be born poor, you must work for success in life.

There are other speakers and I will not detain you longer. I cordially endorse the resolutions offered and say that I believe that Michigan is better, that this country has been better served, that the world is better, for Senator Stockbridge having lived.

Representative Byron S. Waite supported the resolutions in extempore remarks.

Senator Chittenden spoke as follows in support of the resolutions:

Francis B. Stockbridge, one of God's noblemen, in the zenith of his strength and usefulness, "has reached his journey's end," and we are gathered here tonight in halls of state, through which in earlier years his voice was heard, here at the capital of the State he loved so well, and which he did so much to honor, met here to pay our tributes to his work and deeds. "He did not fall like drooping flowers that no man noticeth, but like a great branch of some stately tree, rent in a tempest and flung down to death, thick with green leafage."

How poor this world would be without the past, without its graves, without the mighty dead.

"Only those whose tongues are hushed in death speak eloquently through many years."

It matters not what hour the grim, dread messenger we call Death gives orders for some noble soul to launch his bark upon the dark and unknown sea; it matters not, the shock is always harsh, the grief is always deep, and the loss of one we love, and whom our country loves to honor, seems irreparable, and we look for volunteers to fill the gap made wide by such a death.

But what are years? One of the shining truths that make the memory of our heroes bright, is that their greatness is not measured by the years they lived.

"How long we live, not years but actions tell,
That man lives twice who lives the first life well;
The trust that's given guard and to thyself be just,
For live we how we may, yet die we must."

The history of the world's great men is one made bright by the garlands of flowers that admiring multitudes have strewn upon their graves. All nations have ever honored their noble souls in life and death; when they have passed from the active scenes of life, we should forget their faults and weaknesses, and remember only those things we admire, and which are worthy of our emulation.

In reviewing the lives of great men we should always remember that "The greatest walk in shadows; and that faults and failures mingle with the lives of all."

Renown and honor are to some extent, the creatures of circumstances. Opportunities present themselves, and ask for volunteers; and the man who is great enough, grand enough, and brave enough will embrace the opportunity, and rise by the strength of his genius and the opportunity offered, to greatness; but many an one whose greatness was known to those alone who knew him best, has passed forever from the thoughts of men, because the moment never came to show the world his worth. As Gray in his Immortal Elegy has said:

"Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire.
Hands that the rod of empire might have swayed
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.

But knowledge to their eyes her ample page,
Rich with the spoils of time, did ne'er unroll;
Chill penury repressed their noble rage,
And froze the genial current of their soul."

While the hero whom we seek to honor here tonight was not the greatest, yet he was great, and noble, true and brave. When the noble Governor of this great State wished a patriot, a statesman, a loyal friend in his council, when our nation's life was imperilled during the dark, dread hours of secession and rebellion, from a host of noble men Gov. Blair selected him of whom we speak tonight.

No man more brave than he; no one more patriotic; no one more true to the people whom he loved; no one had a grander heart than he.

One of the characteristics of his life was his unswerving fidelity to the principals of true friendship.

When his many friends had gathered to perform the sad and solemn funeral rites for their illustrious dead, the observer marked not alone the rich and noble, the distinguished and great, but many from the lower walks of life; and as they took their last sad look of their departed friend, their bosoms heaved, and with a sob of manly grief they said, I never had a truer friend than he. Contrast this with the saddest of pictures when Benedict Arnold, raising his hand to Heaven, said "In all America I have not a friend, no not one." Patriotism, love and friendship are the three attributes that build men up, and make them truly great. No man can be great into whose heart the sweet and tender whisperings of love have never come. No man can be truly great whose heart has not gone out towards the spot he calls home; who has never said "This is my own, my native land." No man can be truly great whose soul does not possess the principals of true friendship, that golden cord that binds man nearer man and makes life worth the living.

The illustrious dead was blessed with all these virtues—he was a patriot, he was a statesman, he was an American; he loved his country, and his country loved him well.

May the noble spirit of patriotism, the sweet, tender love for humanity, the ennobling principles of true friendship that so raised him above his fellow men, be ever emulated by all lovers of the human race.

Representative J. T. Campbell then spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Senators and Representatives, Ladies and Gentlemen:

To you who had the pleasure of a personal and familiar acquaintance with Senator Stockbridge would seem to belong all the honor of a voice in his memory tonight; and I have no desire to occupy more than a moment of the time that so clearly belongs to you.

My knowledge of the life of that distinguished man was neither personal nor familiar; yet I knew him, and in a way that perhaps testified to his worth as emphatically and sincerely as another knowledge could have done. I knew him from his reputation as a sympathetic, a social and a friendly man; and while others of you speak of his other virtues and abilities I shall confine myself strictly to a mention of that side of his life.

From the time that he first received the honor of a seat in the United States Senate, I have repeatedly heard and seen evidences of his eminent friendship toward his entire constituency and all the interests he had in charge. Whoever from Michigan had the good fortune to be a guest at the national capitol during his sojourn there was at once invited and installed into a common fellowship with Senator Stockbridge, and that social and friendly spirit exercised by the one high in the councils of his nation always reflected credit and honor upon his beloved Michigan.

When a man, blind from his birth, was asked what he thought the sun to be like, he replied: "Like friendship." He had felt both; he knew both to be warm and invigorating. So the friendship and sympathy of Senator Stockbridge was always beaming and powerful. It marked him as a social favorite in whatever sphere he acted. In open-hearted friendship he won what from others would have required brilliancy and eloquence.

If he was ambitious, it was to retain his friends. If he had a political love, and he had at all times, that love was his State of Michigan. When Michigan lost him she lost a great man's friendship, and tonight she regretfully, aye, sorely, submits to the inevitable.

Who shall say but that his qualities of a genial and generous heart were, after all, the truest and most effectual elements of successful statesmanship? Who shall say that in admiring those features of his make-up we do not recognize the most potent forces that go to make men truly great?

We, representing his State, gather in this impressive way to speak of him tonight, but our words are vain except as they serve to perpetuate his work and his friendship to the people of Michigan who shall follow him. They who speak of his successes in ways of business and of politics have an extensive field before them, and I have thought it fitting for me to refer only to his genial friendship, of which I learn from his living reputation. His Michigan may well say with the bard of Avon,

"The dearest friend to me, the kindest man,
The best conditioned and unwearied spirit
In doing courtesies; and one in whom
The ancient Roman honor more appears
Than any that draws breath in Italy."

Representative Foote spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, and Gentlemen of the Joint Convention:

While I cannot add one word of praise to the many kind and loving words of those who have already preceded me, yet I cannot as a citizen of the same city and a neighbor of the late Senator Stockbridge, refrain from adding my testimony and to place upon record my high appreciation of him as a man in all the word applies.

It can be truly said that he was a self-made man. A man who by his sterling integrity, as well as by all the attributes that go towards the making of a good citizen, each and all of these were possessed by him. He was a man loyal and true to his friends, true to his convictions of right; a man of unswerving loyalty to his country. A man beloved by the rich and poor alike, who was in sympathy and always had a kind word for all who were distressed or in trouble. A man whose purse strings were always loosed to every worthy object. A man who was always ready to assist by every means in his power by which his fellow men might be elevated. Such a man was Francis B. Stockbridge.

He made it possible for that grand association of young men, the Y. M. C. A., to erect that noble edifice in the city of Kalamazoo by giving ten thousand dollars to the building fund, and today that building stands as a towering monument to his memory, for without his gift and his encouragement this could not have been accomplished.

Michigan has in the past been called upon to mourn the loss of great men. Men whose names will live in history; but the name of Francis B. Stockbridge will stand out in a halo of splendor as a man who never shirked a responsibility and who never turned his back upon a friend. He was a man who hated hypocrisy in every form. He had no use for a canting hypocrite or for any man whom he believed was in any way dishonest.

He performed his duty as a citizen and as a Senator fearlessly; his record is an open book, and those who knew him best accord to him the highest meed of praise.

He sleeps his last long sleep at beautiful Mountain Home, overlooking the city he loved so well, which he had seen grow from a small hamlet, to its present proportions. Over his sepulcher the sweet breath of spring wafts in gentle breezes, a sad requiem, and we lovingly tonight bear tribute to his memory. May his ashes rest in peace.

Representative W. I. Latimer then spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Senators and Representatives:

I do not rise at this time to pronounce a formal or extended eulogy on the life, public services or private virtues of the late Senator Stockbridge, but it seems eminently fit and appropriate that after an acquaintance of nearly a quarter of a century, and of daily association for five years, I should, with others, pay a brief tribute of respect to his memory and his worth. He was a man of vigorous, frank nature. Like most of us, he was not free from faults and peculiarities of disposition, but if quick to resent an injury he was also quick to forgive it. He had a thorough aversion to all affectation, was simple and direct in action and expression, independent and clear in judgment. His sincerity was beyond question. His honest belief in the principles which he professed was never disputed; he meant what he said and had no halting opinions; he had a judgment and a decided judgment on every question that was presented to him, and was a forcible but not a frequent speaker. He was a party man, and early selected for his support the party which in his judgment was most conformable to the rights and liberties of the people and to the prosperity of the country. Having deliberately made his choice he adhered to it with all the tenacity of his nature. He believed in strong measures and had no confidence in half way methods. Whatever was right, he held was to be promoted by all legal and proper means. He was a manly, generous, sturdy and courageous friend. In one important respect he supplied an example valuable in any government, especially in one so popular as our own. I refer to the fact that on no occasion was Senator Stockbridge known to use his official position for his own pecuniary gain, either directly or indirectly. His death has ended a career of public service throughout which no one ever charged or suspected him of having made personal profit out of his political station and opportunities. Free-handed and open-hearted, he kept his word, despised a coward and loathed a hypocrite. Among the most prominent distinguishing traits in the character of the late Senator Stockbridge were his strong convictions of what be believed to be right, and his indomitable courage in expressing and maintaining those convictions regardless of consequences. He who possesses such characteristics may always have enemies, but he will never be without friends. Mr. Chairman, in closing let me bear testimony to the warmth of his love for his fellows and the noble qualities of the man—not because custom and usage and regard for the decencies and proprieties of life require it when he is stricken with death, but because I knew and admired the man, and had enjoyed his society and friendship, and esteem it a privilege to honor his memory.

Lieutenant Governor Milnes then addressed the joint convention as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Members of the House and Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

A little more than one year ago the sad news flashed over the electric wires, conveying to us the intelligence that Michigan's distinguished son and statesman, Francis B. Stockbridge, had passed from earth and gone to join the great majority.

We have assembled here tonight in this hall of legislation, where our departed friend and brother stood but a few short years ago in the prime of life and the strength of his noble manhood, in the performance of his duty as a legislator, to pay a tribute to his memory and to testify to his many fine qualities of heart and mind.

It has been truly said that time is the great healer to hearts wounded by the loss of loved ones; yet after this lapse of time, we cannot help but feel sad and sorrowful that the manly form and genial features of our friend, and the public's benefactor, will be seen no more in the legislative halls of State or nation.

Senator Stockbridge was one of those men whom but to know was to love and admire; one of those rugged, honest and genial business men who have made the great northwest blossom like a rose, and left their impress in the communities in which they lived.

Born in the grand old state of Maine, of highly respected parents, he grew up among the tall pines and rugged hills of his native state until the age of sixteen. With a strong and manly constitution, though young in years, he started out with a fixed and steady determination to carve out for himself a name and fortune. For a time he stood behind a counter in Boston, Massachusetts. With his genial manner and gentlemanly deportment, his fine form and gentle voice, we can readily believe he was a success in this position. Saving some of his earnings while engaged as clerk, he soon started boldly forth into the great Northwest, landing in the city of Chicago, and soon afterwards engaging in the lumber business, and quickly demonstrating his ability as a first class business man. Bold and aggressive in all his business transactions, but scrupulously truthful and honest with all with whom he came in contact, he soon gained the confidence of the business world, and was thus enabled to lay the foundation of the great fortune which he soon possessed. He was an ideal business man, with a quick eye, strong will, and ready judgment to take advantage of any opening that led to honorable success in business affairs. His rugged honesty and hearty manner attracted the attention of his fellow men. His untiring energy in early and middle manhood spurred on those with whom he was associated to greater effort and nobler deeds.

Moving to Allegan in 1851, at which time the whole northwestern part of the State was a dense forest, covered with a mighty growth of the tallest and finest pine in the world, and inhabited by wild beasts of various kinds, he very soon commenced operations which led to the rapid development of Allegan and surrounding counties, and at the same time adding to his own fortune a magnificent sum. Later on he took up his residence in the then big village of Kalamazoo, now one of the finest and most progressive inland cities, in this or any other State. Kalamazoo remained his home up to the time of his death.

His adopted city soon began to feel his influence, and never afterwards ceased to honor and reward him for all he did towards its splendid development.

The citizens of Kalamazoo very quickly recognized his great ability and fitness for public affairs, and although he was not a politician in the sense in which that term is generally understood, they soon started him out on an honorable political career which only ended with life itself. In 1869, he served in the lower House of Michigan's Legislature, and in 1871 he was elected to the State Senate, in both of which bodies he served with great distinction to himself and honor to his constituents.

His tact and judgment, coupled with his winning ways and gentlemanly deportment, assured the success of almost any cause which he advocated. He was not an orator or trained public speaker; but he had that which is a surer leader to success, the confidence and esteem of his co-laborers. His influence for good on the business, social and political life of Michigan will be recognized and felt for many years yet to come.

He was richly endowed with good, common sense, with the power to make others see in a right way complex propositions of finance, business and politics. His advice was always freely and frankly given when asked for; if followed, almost invariably led to victory and success. Many men of more brilliant parts than Senator Stockbridge fail for lack of the good sense and tact which he possessed in such an eminent degree.

In 1887 he was elected to the highest legislative body in the land, and served the State and nation with signal ability. In 1893 he was re-elected to the same position and served his constituents faithfully and well up to the time of his sudden death in Chicago.

There is nothing in this world that succeeds like success itself, and when measured from this safe standpoint, Senator Stockbridge was a great success in all the avocations of life in which he engaged.

While Senator Stockbridge was not a brilliant man on the floor of the United States Senate, yet he succeeded in representing the State of Michigan at the national capitol in a highly creditable manner, and became a Senator of great influence in the councils of the nation. His great ability and untiring efforts in behalf of the interests of his adopted State have been bountifully testified to by his colleagues in the Senate, and recognized by the people of Michigan.

He made a great fortune by his splendid business abilities; but, unlike some of our nation's millionaires, he did not hoard it. He was liberal to a fault, scattering his money to the right and left among the poor and needy, relieving the distressed, and caring for those upon whom the fortunes of life had fallen heavily.

Michigan has reason to feel proud and grateful that some of her sons, whom wealth and fortune have smiled upon, have set a bright and shining example to other men of wealth and influence in following out the divine injunction to remember the poor and needy. The well known benefactions of Michigan's soldier statesman, General Alger, and of him whose memory we commemorate today, are worthy of imitation by those upon whom God has showered his blessings with such a liberal hand. If our many, and still multiplying millionaires, would apply some of their accumulated wealth, as these men have done, we should soon cease to hear the complaints we now so often hear against the accumulation of large estates, and the great war between capital and labor would be robbed of its principal incentives; and instead of trying to tear down and destroy great fortunes, we should all be praying for them to increase, and showering blessings upon the men who do not forget that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

Senator Stockbridge was a man prolific in resources and business ability; he was prominent in the mining affairs of the upper peninsula; he engaged largely in the manufacturing establishments of his home city; he was the owner of farms, and took great interest in agricultural enterprises; he extended his lumber interests into distant states and territories. Yet everything he undertook was conducted with such good judgment and economy that success was sure to follow.

The life work and success of Senator Stockbridge furnish to the youth of this and future generations the incentive for the accomplishment of the possibilities that lie before them. In this great republic, in this land of freedom, every man stands on an equal footing before the law, and may, by industry, honesty and perseverance, ascend to the top of fortune's ladder. The poor man of today may become the man of wealth and position tomorrow, by a strict attention to business, and an exercise of those solid qualities of will, mind and heart so conspicuously possessed by the late Senator Stockbridge.

Senator Stockbridge was a staunch believer and supporter of the fundamental principles of christianity, which had much to do in building up and moulding his character.

And now he has gone from our sight forever; his mortal remains have been laid at rest; his noble spirit has taken flight, let us hope, to a brighter and happier home. His memory and good deeds, all the good he did in this life, will live on down the ages of time; and a grateful people will revere his name.

Into the silent land; ah! who shall lead us thither?

Let us, my friends, be ready to do our duty in a conscientious manner. Manfully battling for the cause of right and justice, with a firm belief that the immortal bard was right when he said:

"That he who in life's battle firm doth stand Shall bear hope's tender blossoms to the silent land."

COMMUNICATIONS FROM STATE OFFICERS.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,
ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Lansing, Mich., May 16, 1895. }

To the House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN—In obedience to your request that I investigate, ascertain and report to the House what, if any, interest the State of Michigan still possesses in the title to lands along the right of way of the Clinton and Kalamazoo canal, and what steps, if any, should be taken to establish the rights of the State therein, I have the honor to report as follows:

In the early days—more than fifty years ago—the State authorities thought it wise to engage in works of internal improvement, and the principal work that it undertook was the construction of what is known as "the Clinton and Kalamazoo Canal."

By virtue of act No. 97 of the laws of 1837, a board of commissioners of internal improvements was created. This act was amended by act No. 122 of the laws of 1838, act No. 104 of the laws of 1839, and act No. 63 of the laws of 1840. By section 3 of act No. 97 of the laws of 1837, said board are hereby constituted and appointed the supervisors and overseers of public work; the general care and supervision of all canals, railroads and other improvements to be constructed by the State, shall be vested in and under the direction and control of said board; and by section 9 said board is "authorized to enter into, make and execute any contracts with any person or persons for the construction of any works of internal improvements which the board shall be directed to construct by the legislature."

Act No. 67 of the laws of 1837 provides for the construction of certain works of internal improvements; and among others, in section 5, for the survey of a canal, or for a canal part of the way and a railroad the balance of the route, commencing at or near Mt. Clemens, on the Clinton river, and to terminate at or near the mouth of the Kalamazoo river. By act No. 76 of the laws of 1838, act No. 91 of the laws of 1838, and act No. 50 of the laws of 1841, appropriations to the aggregate amount of $290,000 were made by the Legislature for the building, maintaining and repairing of this canal. By act No. 25 of the laws of 1843, $5,570 was appropriated for paying for all arrearages of work done and materials furnished on the canal.

In 1841 there was granted by congress to the State 500,000 acres of land, for the purpose of internal improvements and thereafter, by act No. 32 of the laws of 1843, act No. 27 of the laws of 1844, act No. 27 of the laws of 1845, and act No. 139 of the laws of 1846, warrants or scrip was issued by the commissioners of internal improvements, for such repairs and other expenses in building and maintaining the canal, as was expended by them. The State evidently getting tired of running the canal (as they had been obliged to pay for the amount that they had run behind), in 1842, by joint resolution No. 36 provided that the board of commissioners of internal improvements be authorized and empowered to lease the Clinton and Kalamazoo canal for a term of not exceeding twenty years. And by joint resolution No. 20 of the legislative session of 1846, the commissioners were again authorized to lease the canal for a period not exceeding twenty years.

Act No. 76 of the laws of 1847, abolished the office of acting commissioner of internal improvements, and vested the powers and duties performed by the board or by the acting commissioner of internal improvements in the State treasurer, Secretary of State and Auditor General. By act No. 93 of the laws of 1847, the Auditor General and Secretary of State were authorized and empowered to lease in writing the Clinton and Kalamazoo canal, between the villages of Frederick, in Macomb county, and Rochester, in the county of Oakland, for a term not to exceed five years. There is nothing appearing of record to show that such a lease was ever made, so far as I have been able to ascertain. This is the last act of the Legislature that I can find with regard to this canal. But the people of the State of Michigan having become sick and tired of prosecuting works of internal improvements, and especially of trying to run this canal, took the first opportunity of making it impossible for such work ever to be attempted again; and in the constitution under which we are now living a provision was incorporated, which now stands as section nine of article fourteen, and reads as follows: "The State shall not be a party to, or interested in, any work of internal improvement, nor engaged in carrying on any such work, except in the expenditure of grants to the State of land or other property." Before this time the property owners along this canal had by deed conveyed for canal purposes to the State a certain strip of land running alongside of the canal. The forms of the deed vary; some are absolute conveyances to the State, some are for canal purposes only, and others, I am informed, provide for reversion to the land owners in case the State should cease to use the canal. But since the adoption of our present constitution, in 1850, now nearly forty-five years ago, the State has not assumed any right over the lands which were deeded to it for purposes of right of way; but the land owners have taken possession of the narrow strip and have occupied and used it for these many years. The water in the canal, however, has been utilized by certain mill owners for years past.

It appears from this statement of facts that the State has really no interest whatever in the canal or in the land which was to be used for the tow-path; that by its own solemn declaration embodied in the organic law of the State, and its failure to use any of this land for forty-five years, it has voluntarily relinquished any claim and interest in and to the lands which had been conveyed to it by private persons for canal purposes.

I am of the opinion that the State claims no interest whatever in and to the lands in question, and that it would be a source of embarrassment if the State was called upon to make any claim of ownership. Still the deeds which have heretofore been received by the State and duly recorded, constitute more or less of a cloud upon the title; and it probably would be best in order to forever settle this matter and to remove any clouds that may exist upon the title to the different pieces of property through which the canal runs, to have a joint or concurrent resolution passed reciting the facts, and therein containing the declaration of the State of Michigan, that it relinquishes all right, title and interest in and to the property in question, and declaring that the lands shall revert to the grantors in the deeds or to their heirs, executors or assigns.

The only other question in the case is as to the right to the use of the water in the canal, and that is an entirely private matter in which the State is not interested.

Yours truly,

FRED A. MAYNARD,

Attorney General.

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS.

No. 1418. By mail to the Clerk: Resolutions of the common council of Detroit relative to taxation.

The resolutions are as follows:

WHEREAS, It appears that there is a large amount of personal property in the State of Michigan which escapes taxation, and also that there is a bill now pending before the State Legislature at Lansing known as House bill No. 1072 (file No. 434), the title of which is "to procure a fuller and better return of property for taxation, and to prevent omissions from the assessment rolls."

Now, therefore, it is resolved, as the sense of the common council of the city of Detroit, that the passage of such a measure would result in great benefit to the thousands of honest taxpayers who are paying taxes which should be paid by those who secrete their property and thus escape their just share of the public burden.

Resolved, That this resolution be forwarded to the Clerk of the House of Representatives at Lansing, with a request that the aforesaid bill be passed, and the relief it contemplates be afforded to the large body of taxpayers who are interested therein in the city of Detroit, and the county of Wayne.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Your committee appointed in accordance with the following resolution:

WHEREAS, It is of vast importance to the State that the so called arid lands or sand plains scattered through the north part of the lower peninsula can be so treated as to become of value.

Resolved, That a committee of five shall be appointed by the speaker to visit experimental operations now being conducted on that class of lands in Muskegon county, and report to this House, whether in their opinion these arid lands can be made valuable if the operations upon them are properly and intelligently conducted.

Respectfully report that we visited the farm of Mr. A. T. Linderman, situated on the Chicago & West Michigan railroad at Linderman's Siding so called, which is about midway between Twin Lake and Holton, Muskegon county.

We found his farm to consist of 680 acres of land from which a light cutting of Norway pine had been taken about 8 years ago. Of this land about 90 acres are cleared, the soil is light, fine grained sand, without any clay sub-soil. Of the 90 acres of cleared land about 65 acres, as near as we can estimate, was in orchard. Of the orchard about 1,500 cherry trees were set two years ago this spring. These cherry trees were in a thriving condition. In the same orchard with the cherry trees were plum trees which did not appear as thrifty as the cherry trees. We found over 2,000 apple trees, some of which have been set four years or more. About one-third of the trees were set over four years ago. The older trees were evidently in good condition and some of them in bloom.

It was apparent to the committee that a large per cent of the trees on this farm have lived and made successful growth during the severe drouths of the past three years, and were in a flourishing condition at the present time.

The system as described by Mr. Linderman and of which the committee found evidence was as follows: The culture is what he terms clay culture.

The hole dug for the tree prior to planting is about 3 feet in diameter and 30 inches deep. This hole is filled to within a foot of the surface with clay that has been pulverized.

From examination made by the committee it would appear that about a bushel or a bushel and a half of this mixture was placed in each hole.

To the amount of clay is added a small amount of wood ashes and land plaster. On top of this mixture a small amount of sand is placed. In this sand and on top of the clay mixture the tree is planted in the ordinary way, and the first season a top dressing of clay mixture, to the extent of about two bushels is added. Each year a little more of the clay mixture is spread about the tree, gradually extending each way from the tree, which by plowing and cultivating becomes incorporated with the soil.

The cost of furnishing the clay will depend upon the distance which the clay would have to be hauled. In the instance of Mr. Linderman's farm the clay was found in the center of the farm. The plan of operations as followed by Mr. Linderman further contemplates the keeping of something growing on the land all the time. Each year a crop is taken off but immediately another crop started with the object of plowing it under for the benefit of the soil. In many cases before the first crop has been removed from the ground, the second or fertilizing crop has been started.

It appears to your committee from the accounts given by Mr. Linderman, that the persistent following of this course has materially benefited the fertility of the soil as well as to its drouth resisting quality. The decaying roots and tops of the crop plowed under seeming to add to the soil a humus or mould which enables the soil to retain the moisture very materially.

The ground is back furrowed in plowing towards the trees and so continued until the top soil is about eighteen inches in depth for a considerable distance about the tree.

Your committee were favorably impressed with the showing made by Mr. Linderman as far as his system of cultivation of certain kinds of fruits had demonstrated the practical nature of the experiment on his land so favorably situated as regards clay beds, which were found nearly in the center of the farm, and therefore costing but little for digging and hauling of the clay to the orchards.

The question arises, can clay beds be found in all localities where these arid lands exist, so as to be made use of in the cultivation of fruit at not too great expense. This question your committee are unable to answer.

No. 1420. By Mr. Wagar: Petition of R. H. Bardell and 54 other citizens of Montcalm county asking for the enactment of a law establishing a department of American Eclectic Medicine in the State University.

Referred to the committee on University.

No. 1421. By Mr. Cathro: Petition of J. D. Turnbull of Alpena asking further relief for the supreme court, and the formation of rules for their guidance.

On demand of Mr. Cathro,

The petition was read at length and spread at large on the Journal, as follows:

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Michigan:

Your petitioner, J. D. Turnbull, would most respectfully represent that he has been a member of each of your honorable bodies, and has been a practicing attorney in the various courts of this State for 20 years and upwards, and most earnestly petitions for the enactment of some legislation covering the following matters:

First, For the relief of our honorable supreme court, so that said court shall have due time and opportunity to examine all matters presented;

Second, Requiring said supreme court to pass specially upon all assignments of error contained in the record of criminal cases, and to make it an impeachable offense for said court not to do so;

Third, Prohibiting a change of venue in all criminal cases except upon the request of the accused.

As to first, your honorable bodies will remember that two years ago we attempted to give this relief to said supreme court by enacting a law requiring the judges of said court to reside at Lansing, and raising their salaries $2,000 per year. The basis of this action was that it would give the judges of said court sufficient time and opportunity to examine and deliberate upon all matters presented to said court.

This law at most has only partially accomplished the end sought. There are at least at the present time 1,500 different matters presented to said court per year for its decision, making an average of five decisions for said court to deliberate upon and decide each day the year around. It is therefore self evident that said court can not do all its work, and give it the attention and deliberation it ought to secure.

This is a matter of great importance to the people of this State; something should be done to relieve the court.

As to second, it is the express constitutional right of every person accused of crime in this State to have the assistance of counsel, for his defense, but of what avail is this right if after his counsel has made objections and taken exceptions to certain of the proceedings which have resulted in his conviction if he cannot have these objections and exceptions duly passed upon by the supreme court.

It is therefore a denial of a constitutional right for said court not to pass upon each assignment of error in a criminal case. The law therefore ought to express that said court must do so.

As to the third, for many years it was supposed that the constitution of this State gave to all persons accused of crime the absolute right of being tried for such crime in the county where such crime was alleged to have taken place, but it has been determined that this was a mistaken view; that our constitution does not give this as an absolute right to the accused. In many of the States of this union the accused has this right. He should have it in our State. The accused ought to have the privilege of being tried by a jury of his own county. He ought not to be forced to distant counties to make his defense; to compel him to do so is a great hardship and therefore should not be permitted.

As a practical illustration of the subject matter of this petition, your petitioner gives the following as one of the many that has come under his personal observation.

In August, 1875, one Albert Molitor was murdered at Rogers City, Presque Isle county. The matter was allowed to remain at rest until 1891 when August Grossman, Augustus Fuhmann, Henry Jacobs and Charles Voegler, four respectable farmers were arrested for the murder and in due time brought on for trial in Presque Isle county, when at the request of the prosecution and against the will and protests of defense, the place of trial was changed to Alpena county, and said Grossman was first tried at Alpena; upon his trial the date of the birth of a certain child became material and important. The defense proved by those present at the birth that it took place in August, 1875. The prosecution in rebuttal claimed this child was born in August, 1876, and to prove this fact against the objection of the defense introduced in evidence a certified copy of the record of births of Presque Isle county, showing that according to this record this child was born in 1876. This was a great surprise to the defense; they immediately telephoned to Rogers City for a copy of this record and procured it. This copy showing the birth was in 1875, and introduced this in evidence; immediately after this the evidence was closed and the case argued to jury. The prosecution arguing to jury that this last certificate obtained by the defense was fraudulent and obtained by defense for the express purpose of deceiving and misleading the jury.

The council for the defense did not know themselves what it meant; this same clerk giving two certificates, one showing that birth was in 1875, the other in 1876, and were unable to explain it. All of the defendants were strangers to an Alpena jury so that it was quite easy for prosecution to convince jury to take their view of it and convict, and the jury did so. This clerk afterwards on motion for a new trial testified that while he was in attendance upon this trial at Alpena as a witness for the people he was sent after the record of births and brought the same to the counsel for the prosecution, and that a short time before the evidence was closed. Said counsel made out a copy of this record for him to sign and that said counsel then instructed him to go back to Rogers City and take the record of births with him, which he did, and that the reason the two certificates signed by him were different was that this record contained two entries of this birth, one showing it to be 1875, the other in 1876.

It is evident if this trial had taken place in Presque Isle county, no such advantage could have been taken of the defense, as the record would have been present to explain itself.

That the admission of the contents of this record of births is evidence tending to prove the date of this birth was illegal, all must concede, as it is one of the provisions of our State constitution that the accused shall have the right to be confronted with the witnesses against him.

This matter was all duly excepted to by the counsel for the defense and error assigned thereon in the record of case presented to the honorable supreme court and this said court gave its decision, which will be found in the 61 Northwestern Reporter, page 867. The said supreme court it will be seen does not pass upon or make any mention of this said assignment of error and there are at least four other assignments of error contained in said records, which the counsel for the defense deemed material, which said supreme court does not pass upon or make any mention of in its said decision.

All of these defendants are now serving life sentences at the State prison at Jackson, and it is almost certain that this results from said court being overdone with work. Your honorable body can very readily see what a serious matter this is to these said parties doomed to imprisonment for life, and this state of affairs demands relief. If it is too late to do this at your present session, then a commission should be appointed to investigate and report some remedy at your next session, and your petitioner will every pray.

J. D. TURNBULL.

No. 1422. By Mr. Woodruff: Petition of E. J. Goodell and 40 others of Wayne county.

On demand of Mr. Woodruff,

The petition was read at length and spread at large on the Journal, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the old veterans of the war of the rebellion, respectfully petition the Legislature to pass the bill for the equalization of bounties to the old soldiers enlisted in this State, witness our signatures this 26th day of May, 1895.

Referred to committee on Ways and Means.

No. 1423. By Mr. Woodruff: Petition of members of A. C. Brindle post No. 413 of Wayne county.

On demand of Mr. Woodruff,

The petition was read at length and spread at large on the Journal, as follows:

Wyandotte, Mich., May 18, 1895.

To the Hon. Ari E. Woodruff, Representative 2d District, Wayne County:

We, the members of the A. C. Brindle post No. 413, department of Michigan, ex-soldiers of the late war and living in said district, knowing that there is great inequality in the bounties paid by Michigan during the rebellion, the men enlisting during the early part of the war not getting any bounty, while others enlisting at other periods getting $50, $100 and $150, and feeling that the bill lately introduced in the House by W. H. Ferguson to pay $100 bounty to all Michigan soldiers and sailors who served ninety days and enlisted prior to February 5, 1865, is a just measure, we respectfully petition you to support the bill and make proper efforts that it may become a law.

The above preamble was unanimously adopted by the above named post at a regular meeting.

Referred to committee on Ways and Means.

~~REPORT~~ REPORTS OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

Majority report of special committee appointed to consider the reports of the various State officers.

A majority of your committee appointed to consider the communications of the various State officers, submitted to the House under resolution adopted February 17, beg leave to report:

First, That we have made a careful examination of the various communications, and have supplemented such information as they contain by interviews with the heads of departments and personal examination of the general and detail work of the offices;

Second, That we have found the work of each office is being done carefully and methodically under the direction of the head of the department and his deputy, with every possible regard for the interests of the State; and we are satisfied that no change should be made in the present regulations or work of the departments;

Third, That we find it is the custom in the various departments to pay a salary of from $50 to $60 per month to those first entering upon clerical service, and that such salary is raised from time to time as the clerk becomes more valuable by reason of experience to $800, $900 and $1,000 per annum; that the maximum salary for clerks in the most responsible positions not specially named in the statutes, is $1,000 per annum.

The majority of your committee is of the opinion after a careful examination of the communications laid before us and thorough investigation of the subject, that the work of the several departments is being done in a manner satisfactory to the best interests of the State and with such care and economy as characterize a successful business management. We recommend, therefore, that no change be made in existing laws relative to the clerical force in the several departments, or in the compensation allowed. And further recommend that the further consideration of House bill No. 480, which was referred to this committee, be indefinitely postponed.

F. C. CHAMBERLAIN,
JOHN M. ROBERTSON,
THEO. M. WOLTER.

Report accepted and committee discharged.

The select committee on reports of State officers most respectfully report that inasmuch as no specific instruction was given your committee as to what was required of them have confined their investigation strictly to the printed report. See Journal, pages 252 to 265.

We find that the department of State reports 102 clerks on its pay roll, classified as follows:

Deputy Secretary of State, salary $2,000 per annum.

Chief clerk, salary $1,200 per annum.

Three clerks at $1,100 per annum.

Fifty-eight clerks at $900 per annum.

Thirty-six clerks at $1,000 per annum.

Three clerks at $720 per annum.

Of whom 63 are males and 39 females.

The Auditor General reports 96 employes of whom 8 are heads of departments, receiving from $1,100 to $2,000 each; 2 clerks receiving $600 each, 22 clerks receiving $900 each, and 64 receiving $1,000 each; 27 of the above number are females and 69 are males.

The resolution adopted by the House February 17, calls for the age as well as the sex of the employes. For reasons best known and unexplained by the Auditor General no ages of females are given in his report. We are therefore unable to analyze the report as we would wish to do. We are, however, of the opinion that a large reduction could be made in the salaries of the regular clerks, without doing injustice to any one and at the same time making a great saving to the State.

We can see no good reason, neither has any been given, why the State should pay higher wages than are paid by first class business houses for the same class of work. Neither do we approve of the practice adopted of making seven hours or less a days work, thereby entailing a loss to the State and creating strife among applicants for soft snaps.

We believe that in some instances the heads of departments do not receive just compensation that their experience and responsible positions entitle them to. On the other hand a clerk without experience receives more than the services rendered and his experience entitles him to receive. We therefore recommend the passage of House bill file No. 373, which if passed would in our opinion greatly improve the service of these departments by classifying employes according to age and experience.

Your committee is not prepared to make any report upon other subject matter contained in department reports. Such report should only be made after a careful examination by expert accountants of the books and papers in the various departments.

We do not understand that the resolution contemplated or conferred upon your committee any such duty.

R. KEMPF, Chairman.

E. A. WILDEY.

Report accepted.

JOINT RESOLUTION proposing an amendment to section 1 of article 15 of the constitution of the State of Michigan and to strike out and repeal sections 13 and 14 of said article 15, relative to the formation of corporations.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Michigan, That there shall be submitted to the electors of this State, for approval or rejection, the following amendment to section 1 of article 15 of the constitution of this State, and the proposition to strike out and repeal sections 13 and 14 of said article 15, that is to say, that section 1 of article 15 of said constitution be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 1. Corporations, whether public or private, may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special acts. The Legislature, however, may, by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each House, create a single bank with branches. All laws passed by the Legislature for the formation of corporations, either public or private except municipal corporations, may be amended, altered or repealed by the Legislature, but all charters of municipal corporations shall only be amended in the manner hereafter provided. The Legislature shall classify, for purposes of incorporation, all cities into four classes, and shall enact suitable general laws for their incorporation. A general law shall also be enacted for the incorporation of villages. All special or general acts of incorporation of cities or villages at present in force or hereafter adopted shall continue in full force and effect until altered or repealed in the manner hereinafter prescribed. The charter of any city or village, whether incorporated by special act of the Legislature heretofore passed or incorporated under the general laws of this State, may be amended by the addition of other or different provisions or by the striking out of any of the existing provisions, in the following manner: Upon the petition signed by 1,000 electors of a city of the first class, 750 electors of a city of the second class, 500 electors of a city of the third class, 100 electors of a city of the fourth class, or two-thirds of the electors of a village, as shown by the last preceding registration, the common council or board of trustees may, by a two-thirds vote of all the members elect, adopt a resolution submitting a proposed amendment or amendments to the electors of such city or village at a regular or a special election duly called for that purpose. Not more than one special election shall be held in any one year. Such resolution shall distinctly set forth the proposed amendment or amendments, shall fix the time when the same are to take effect if ratified, and shall be entered at length on the journal of the common council or board of trustees, together with the names of the aldermen or trustees voting thereon. The proposed amendment or amendments shall also be published once each week for six successive weeks immediately preceding the election in one or more newspapers published and circulating in the city or village, to be designated by the common council or board of trustees, if any newspaper be published in such city or village, and if not, the proposed amendment shall be conspicuously posted in ten of the most public places in such city or village for six successive weeks immediately preceding the election, to be designated by the common council or the board of trustees. Suitable forms of ballots for voting for or against the proposed amendment or amendments shall be prescribed in the resolution submitting the same, and the votes shall be canvassed and the returns made in the same manner as is prescribed in the case of the election of city or village officers. If such amendment or amendments are ratified by a majority of all the electors voting thereon, they shall be deemed adopted and shall become a part of the charter of the city or village and shall take effect at the time prescribed in the resolution submitting the same. The Legislature shall have sole power to limit or restrict the powers of cities and villages in regard to taxation, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, and the powers of amendment herein granted shall not in any manner conflict with any of the provisions of the constitution of this State or the constitution of the United States, nor affect the rights of the county or township in which any city or village may be located, nor shall any such amendment pertain to municipal courts of civil and criminal jurisdiction, the increase of the number of justices of the peace in cities or the representation of any city or village in the board of supervisors of the counties in which they may be situated, or the extension of the boundaries of any city or village. And the Legislature shall only have power to enact special laws relating to cities and villages governing the aforesaid matters, in relation to which cities and villages are not permitted to amend their charters. Judicial officers of all cities and villages shall be elected, and no charter of any city or village shall be amended to the contrary. And that sections 13 and 14 of article 15 of the constitution of this State are hereby stricken out and repealed.

Resolved, That said constitutional amendment shall be submitted to the electors of this State at the election to take place on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in the year 1896, and the Secretary of State is hereby required to give notice of the same to the sheriffs of the several counties of this State at least fifteen days prior to said election, and to certify the same to the clerks of the several counties of this State as required by the general laws of the State, and the said sheriffs are directed to give the several notices required by law, and the board of election commissioners of each of the several counties in this State shall prepare the ballots for voting on this amendment in accordance with the general laws of the State, and shall designate said amendment on the official ballot as follows: "Amendment to the constitution relative to corporations," with the words "Yes" and "No" so arranged that the electors may vote for or against said amendment by means of such mark as is or may be prescribed by law. The votes shall in all respects be canvassed and returns made as in the election of State officers.

Hon. G. W. Partridge, House of Representatives, Lansing, Mich.:

DEAR SIR—A bill recommended by the committee on State Affairs and introduced by you in the Legislature has just been handed to me: "A bill to provide for the purchase by the State of Michigan of the portrait of Zachariah Chandler, painted by L. T. Ives, and to appropriate such sum of money as may be necessary for that purpose."

This is the first intimation I have had that the Legislature would like to possess a portrait of my late husband.

Mr. L. T. Ives, the artist, was very successful in painting several portraits of Mr. Chandler. I presented one to Hillsdale college at its request. Another I presented to the city of Detroit at the special request of many friends, and it is in the mayor's office. And now it gives me pleasure to present to the State the portrait asked for, to remain in the capitol forever.

Very truly yours,

L. G. CHANDLER.

After the reading of the letter of presentation,

Mr. Partridge spoke as follows:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

It gives me great pleasure for and in behalf of Mrs. L. G. Chandler, to formally present the portrait of her late husband, the distinguished United States Senator, Zachariah Chandler, which now adorns the walls of this Representative Hall, to the State of Michigan, to be preserved and retained in this capitol building as one of its permanent adornments.

Mr. Partridge then presented the following:

Concurrent resolution accepting the gift of the portrait of the late United States Senator, Honorable Zachariah Chandler:

WHEREAS, The portrait of the late United States Senator, Honorable Zachariah Chandler, painted by L. T. Ives, and now adorning Representative Hall, has been presented to the State of Michigan by Mrs. L. G. Chandler.

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring). That the gift of the portrait of the late Senator Zachariah Chandler be accepted on behalf of the State of Michigan, and in accordance with the request of the donor, Mrs. Chandler, it will remain in a suitable location in the State capitol building forever.

Resolved, That the Board of State Auditors be and are hereby directed to take charge of said portrait as the property of the State, and to place the same in some suitable position in said building to be cared for and preserved as one of the permanent adornments thereof;

Resolved, That a copy of this concurrent resolution be suitably engrossed and presented to the donor, Mrs. L. G. Chandler.

Which motion did not prevail, two-thirds of all the members present not voting therefor.

Mr. Ware moved to amend the bill by inserting in line 53, section 8, after the word "offered" the words "and that he does not hold any elective or appointive office, other than that of notary public, in any county, city, village or township of this State;"

REPORTS OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

Your special committee to whom was referred the investigation of the toll roads organized and doing business in the State, respectfully report that they have had the same under consideration and have visited the various localities in which said companies hold their offices, have examined the books and papers of such companies and obtained detailed sworn statements of the officers of twenty-three toll road companies that being all the companies doing business so far as your committee are able to learn, representing a capital of $700,000.00 and controlling 250 miles of road upon which toll is taken. We find that about one-half the companies are making the annual report and paying to the State the tax required by sections 3634 and 3635 of Howell and others make no report and pay no tax, in some cases not even keeping a complete or comprehensive set of books; while others have sought to avoid the tax by paying to some of their officers enormous salaries out of all proportion to the business done, still others seek to accomplish the same ends by bonding the roads for a large amount and paying the interest and principal out of the earnings of the roads, still others expend the earnings of their roads in building new extensions to their roads, thereby avoiding the payments of the five per cent tax as required which tax can be collected, as your committee are advised and verily believe, all of which matters and things are fully set forth in the sworn statements now on file in the office of the Auditor General and marked exhibit "A," to which your committee beg leave to refer.

Your committee recommend that the Attorney General be instructed to institute proceedings against companies found to be delinquent as shown by said reports (exhibit "A") for the collection of such sums as may be justly due the State. We further recommend that section 3635 be amended so as to provide a penalty for the non-compliance of the law as to making reports, and the failure to pay the tax. Also, that the act be so amended that a specific tax of two per cent be collected upon the gross earnings of the several companies instead of the five per cent tax on the net profits, all of which your committee respectfully report and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the same.

SUMMARY.

Whole number of votes cast:

For Lewis M. Miller:

Senators	29
Representatives	98
	— 127

The President of the Senate and chairman of the joint convention announced that Lewis M. Miller having received all the votes cast, a quorum of each House being present, and voting, was duly appointed as compiler of the general laws of the State.

On motion of Senator Smalley,

The joint convention adjourned sine die.

DENNIS E. ALWARD,

Secretary of the Senate.

SAMUEL F. COOK,

Journal Clerk and Acting Clerk of the House, and Secretaries of the Joint Convention.

The Senators having retired,

The House was called to order by the Speaker.

Roll called: quorum present.

The Speaker announced that the joint convention had met for the purpose of appointing a compiler of the general laws of the State, and had made choice of Lewis M. Miller as compiler of the laws in accordance with the bill passed by the present Legislature relative thereto, and the requirements of the constitution.

Mr. Chamberlain rose in his place and addressed the Speaker, as follows:

MR. SPEAKER—Our labors incident to the Legislative session of 1894-5, our doings and acts, our most pleasant association as fellow members, are about to pass into the State's history, and be cherished among our most pleasant and happy recollections.

The last day of this session, to which many of us have been looking forward for five long weary months, has arrived at last, and is nearly done. On the morrow we shall be relieved from further legislative duties, and the association here each with the others, will be but a valued, a cherished, a sweet and tender memory. To me, and I apprehend to all my fellow members, the saddest moment of this session will be that in which we shall take our colleagues by the hand and bid them God speed, for the last time, with many, this side of eternity, for by the ordinary rules governing the conduct of human affairs it is improbable that we shall all meet again until we assemble in response to the last roll call before the bar of a higher House.

It is not surprising that among a large body of men such as is that comprising this House of Representatives, coming from all parts of this great State, we should have found honest differences of opinion, and met with many conflicting ideas relative to matters concerning the State's interests, but, sir, those differences, I believe, have been honest ones, and have, as a whole, contributed to the best interests of our own beloved Michigan being properly subserved, and serving as a spice in what might have otherwise proved a dry and monotonous session.

I desire in behalf of the Republican members of this body to express our warm appreciation and approbation of the courteous treatment and generous, gentlemanly respect accorded us by the honorable gentleman who once represented and now comprises what a few months since was a great political party, the gentleman from Bay, Mr. Donovan.

And now, Mr. Speaker, I approach the very pleasant duty that I have been requested to perform. At the opening of this session, five months since, the members of this body were called upon to select from among their own number a Speaker of this House, and with one accord selected you, sir, to fill that exalted office, and conferred upon you the additional honor of being the first Speaker chosen by a unanimous vote in the history of the House of Representatives of this State. Five months of service have passed and the House congratulates itself upon the sagacity and wisdom displayed in making that selection. The position is a most difficult and trying one, but you, sir, have discharged the duties of that high office with such marked ability, fairness, impartiality and zeal that the interests of the State have been well and properly subserved and the members of this House entertain for you the highest respect and the warmest personal regard.

In behalf of the members of this House I present you with these tokens of our respect, our esteem, our admiration and our affection, and trust they will oftentimes remind you of the pleasant association and happy relationship that has existed between yourself and the other members of this House during the session just closing.

We hope you will accept them in the same spirit in which they are tendered, and as you and yours go down the tide of the years we trust these mementoes may add to your happiness by recalling your present relationship and association to and with your fellow-members of this House, who, in bidding you farewell, extend to you and yours a most fervent God speed.

While Mr. Chamberlain was speaking there was placed on the Speaker's desk, a silver dinner set, silver tea set, silver after dinner coffee set, gold watch and diamond stud.

Mr. J. T. Campbell then spoke as follows:

This, to me, is a special privilege. Not only am I gratified at the opportunity to express my own sentiments, but I discover that mine are also the sentiments of these colleagues who sit in this vicinity.

Nothing is more apparent than that this House of Representatives chose wisely on the first day of its session when it selected its presiding officer; and now at the close of one hundred and fifty days of such experiences as only a legislature can afford, it is indeed a pleasure to observe that our Speaker has been impartial and unswerving in duty, and to duty has added kindness and dignity. It must be true that every member of this body has felt the genial and generous friendship of the man in the chair, and is tonight anxious to recognize that peculiar ability and fraternity that has characterized him in all his rulings.

Early in the session he threw out lines of friendship that attached themselves to the hearts of all the members and that have ever since been the magnetic cords of communication, that like converging radii centered at the heart of our Speaker, and along which has been transacted the varied business of this body.

Friendship that grows from business associations and experiences is always sincere and lasting; and, sir, as we separate tonight and go to our several homes throughout the State of Michigan, we extend these lines now drawn from us to you, but they are unbreakable; and hereafter as long as we live they will converge from the corners of Michigan to your Midland home.

The gifts bestowed will speak in our absence, and as you look into the face of one of them may you always see our smiles, may they be reflected from the diamond in reciprocal feeling; and may you and your good wife remember us all when you gather at your board and look upon the silver so popular in this year of our Lord. Accept and cherish them in kind remembrance of the donors.

Mr. Donovan addressed the Speaker as follows:

MR. SPEAKER—Owing to the peculiar position that I have occupied and to the uniform courtesy that has been extended to me during entire session that is now drawing to a close, I felt quite reluctant to taking much part in the discussions that have been held upon this floor. I did not wish to overawe or coerce the members of this House who differed with me politically and thereby destroy the peace of mind, the sweet rest that their arduous labors have entitled them to. I had no desire to attempt an oratorical display because I should certainly fall flat if I made such an attempt and I should scorn myself and be an object of scorn to all my brothers here and to you, if I posed as an obstructionist or merely for effect. But, sir, in the present instance, all these considerations are removed and I desire to add my testimony to the universal testimony of this House, as to your worth, your ability and your integrity as a presiding officer. I desire to add my testimony to the universal testimony of this House as to your worth, your ability and your integrity as a presiding officer. I desire to add my tribute of esteem to that of all my brother members, that we may in this feeble way show you the great regard we have for you. Your position has, no doubt, had its moments of pleasure and gratification, but it has also had its hours of trial and despondency and had you not been fortified by those manly and christian traits of character that always win, you would not today have the proud consciousness of knowing that your work has been most acceptable to us all. I do not think there is a sore spot or even an irritation as a result of your rulings or your treatment of us during the session, and if we could know that we have been as fortunate, if we could know that we have not caused you pain or embarrassment, this knowledge would add much to the pleasure of this happy though solemn occasion. These articles that we present you do not measure the regard or the esteem in which we hold you. They are but an earnest of our desire to give some tangible evidence of our esteem that may go with you to your home to be mute reminders of us all, whenever you enter that sacred place and distance alone prevents our making these reminders personally and we trust that the acceptance of these gifts will afford you as much pleasure, and as lasting pleasure, as the presentation of them affords us. And now, my brother members, while I am on my feet, I will avail myself of this opportunity to thank you for the many acts of kindness and the many courtesies you have shown me in and out of these halls ever since I came amongst you. There was nothing that I had ever done or could possibly do, that would afford a motive or offer an inducement for these generous acts. They were the promptings of noble hearts and generous natures, and I desire to say to you before parting that they have made an impression on my mind and heart that will not fade or dim with the accumulation of cares or the infirmities of age. They will be embalmed in my memory and live while I live. I have desired an opportunity and I will avail myself of the present one, to say to you that I do appreciate and that I am thankful for the many courtesies you have shown me during the entire session, and as we separate for our several homes, as we soon must do, let us carry with us the same mutual regard each for the other, that we have entertained here. I am sure it will sweeten my life to give and to have this assurance.

Mr. Holden spoke as follows:

About six months ago I was the recipient of a letter, the writer of which was, at that time, quite unknown to me; that letter modestly asked a favor, and although I might have divined the character of the author from a little study of the chirography and composition of the epistle, I thoughtlessly filed it away after briefly answering it without doing so, little thinking at that time that I should so soon come to call the writer thereof my friend. Or that so soon, there would be kindling in my breast a fire of friendship toward him such as now glows not only in my heart, but from what I can learn warms the hearts of his ninety-eight colleagues upon the floor of this House.

Subsequent to the receipt of this letter, it was my good fortune to meet this man face to face and for the first time grasp the hand of our now beloved and esteemed Speaker. The favor was, I say, modestly asked, that is, the letter was wholly devoid of the spirit of presumptuousness, or egotism. It did not recite the great achievements of his life, or its great possibilities. It was courteous, unpretentious, but gentlemanly solicitious, and let me say here, that could my acquaintance with him have been dated back instead of ahead of that day the request would have been eagerly granted, why? Because since my closer relations with him, I have come to know him well, have found him as you all have found him a just and true man and friend, broad in his scope of reasoning, generous to a fault, ready and willing to befriend, kindly disposed toward all, firm in his positions of right, dealing equitably with all, and ever ready to heal any wound unwittingly made. Such a character cannot but inspire confidence, cannot but secure strong friendships, cannot but acquire a deserved place amongst the best souls and minds of our beloved State and nation. Such a man inspires in his friends such words as were spoken by the great bard of Avon, and are so true.

"Those friends thou hast and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steal!"

In his entertainment we have found him pure in thought, in his offices towards us, we have found him fair and just, and always standing upon ground "well taken." So that again with the great poet we exclaim:

"Thou art e'en as just a man
As e'er my conversation coped withall."

For the privilege thus granted me to contribute my poor mite to the eloquent words in commendation of him whom we have been pleased to often address as Mr. Speaker, I commend me to you, and after the sundering of ties which have so pleasantly bound us together for the past five to me most profitable months. May our paths often meet and we as often greet each other as we journey on through life. May the slight token of our esteem presented here tonight always be a reminder of the warm place you hold in our hearts.

Mr. M. S. Curtis spoke as follows:

To preside over the deliberations of any legislative body, even for a short period of time, satisfactorily and well, one must possess qualifications of leadership to which but comparatively few can make just claim; one must possess ability and courage, have an intimate knowledge of measures and of men, must be a close student of human nature, and withall must have a keen perception of fairness, impartiality and strict justice, coupled with a mind quick of conception, a moral courage ready to enforce without fear or favor a rigid obedience to the rules and laws laid down for the government of such deliberative body. To possess these attributes is to possess a treasure, but to possess and at the same time to be able to share with others the pleasures of such possessions is a happy privilege allowed to but comparatively few men. Such possessions can the Speaker of this House justly lay claim to, having presided over the deliberations of this House for nearly five consecutive months in such a manner as to have strengthened the bonds of friendship existing at the commencement of this session, between himself and his old associates of two years ago, while through his kindness of heart and courtesy of manner he has endeared himself to us all. He has proven the truth of the old adage, that "He who would govern others must first learn to govern himself," for from the first moment of assuming the Speakership he has demonstrated beyond a doubt that he had absolute control of himself, and since which time there has been no question as to his ability to preside over this body.

Kind and courteous, with an absolute freedom from any disposition to use his authority in an arbitrary manner, he has bent his every effort to a rapid dispatch of the business of State with such success that tonight the State of Michigan owes him a debt of gratitude for his masterly efforts in its behalf. And the members of this House take pleasure in giving expression to their approval of his leadership in this substantial manner.

Mr. Speaker, that pleasant memories of the winter of 1895 may linger in the minds of you and yours through a long and prosperous future is our most earnest wish, and that the best wishes of this entire membership will follow you while memory shall last is our earnest belief.

We bid you God speed.

Mr. Matthews spoke as follows:

I love to see evidence of sentiment in the human heart. A man who has not a tender heart is not an enjoyable companion, and a woman without sentiment is in my opinion a sad, sad mistake.

As I listened to the speeches of my colleagues in this most proper presentation, I experienced feelings of joy and of sadness. Feelings of joy at the thought that my work in this hall was about at an end and I would soon be at liberty to return to my home and my family. Feelings of sadness, however, closely followed as I thought that in a few hours we must sever the bonds of close association which have been formed by five months life and work at the capital of our beloved State.

We have many things to be thankful for tonight. The hand of death has not been laid upon a single member during our sojourn here. But by the laws of nature one by one those links will fall from this now unbroken chain and we will never again gather together in this hall. One thought however is pleasant, namely, that no distance of separation nor change of circumstance can be so great as to erase from our minds the memory of the happy times and loving associations formed here. In our different positions of private life we may have been far apart, but as members of the the House of Representatives of 1895 we were as one.

We have something else to be thankful for, and that is the splendid record of our worthy Speaker. A record made up of uniform courtesy, unvarying fairness and unquestionable ability in the discharge of the duties of Speaker. We have ever been proud of you, Mr. Speaker, since our selection of you as our Speaker—and never were we more proud of you, sir, than tonight. And in the presents which we bring to you are the material evidences of our appreciation. I am glad to contribute to the production of this material evidence of our appreciation—this way—glad to raise my voice with my brothers and tell you of the regard and love we bear toward you.

I do not believe in post-mortem kindness. I believe if a kindness is to be shown in showing that kindness while the heart can appreciate it. I believe in anointing our worthy while they are with us. Post-mortem kindness does not cheer the burdened spirit—flowers on the coffin cast no fragrance backward over the weary way.

Mr. Fisk spoke as follows:

MR. SPEAKER—I have listened with pleasure to the warm commendations offered by my colleagues, and I heartily endorse all they have said relative to the kindly relation existing between this House and its Speaker. But, sir, if I do not mistake your character, there is an honorable ambition different than all this which it has been your desire to satisfy. A warm heart and a good will to all men will establish relations of friendship, but they will not necessarily make a great speaker of a legislative body. I believe it is my duty as it is my pleasure to hold up to this body the ideal speaker as we find him described in the books, and then gladden and make proud the hearts of the members of this House by showing how near our respected Speaker comes to this ideal. I believe you craved with the longing of an honest heart, the good will and warm friendship of the members, but I also believe you craved more than all this, that you might be a perfect servant of this House and of the State, that public duty, for the good of the public was, in your mind above mere private pleasure or personal profit, that your desire was to be a perfect public officer rather than a social favorite.

In looking over the books I find that, as early as 1803 Sir William Scott in nominating a speaker of the House of Commons for re-election, fittingly described the ideal speaker after this fashion. I will take the several requisites as they come.

He says, "To an enlargement of mind capable of embracing the most comprehensive subject, must be added the faculty of descending with precision to the most minute."

Sir, we at once recognize the importance of these requirements when we recall that no subject before this house has ever been delayed or miscarried by reason of a want of this breadth of comprehension, and that no detail has ever been confused or misplaced by a want of attention.

He says further, "He must have habits of laborious research combined with powers of instant decision." We realize that the "instant decision" is here the great requisite, and we grow proud of you, sir, when we recall the wonderful faculty which you have possessed and cultivated of instant decision. It is the instant decision of all questions that produce or facilitate that constant and steady flow of business through a legislative body so necessary to the despatch of its business. It is to your uniform practice of instant decision that we owe the fact that we have done more business in the same time, than has ever been accomplished before in a Michigan Legislature. Errors due to instant decision may be corrected by the ordinary rules of a parliamentary body, but hours lost by indecision and doubt remain forever a blot upon the history of a house. Sir, we can pay you no higher tribute than to say that the record of this house is absolutely without a single instance of a moment lost from the indecision of the Speaker.

The ancient and eminent authority adds this attribute of a great speaker. "To a jealous affection for the privileges of the House must be added an awful sense of its duties," I like the use of the word affection in this connection. It means more than the mere sentimental regard for the individual members, it means a broader regard for the honors and dignities of the body. It means a realization of the full coordinate powers of the House and furnishes a mainspring of active determination to disregard the overriding power of outside influence. It means a full realization of the fact that in its sphere the House is second to and subordinate to no other branch of the government, but is clothed with the full dignity of independent representation of the will of the people. We, sir, have at all times felt the active influence of this affection, and that the rights of the House was at all times protected by you.

Again he says, "To a firmness that can resist solicitation must be added a suavity that can receive it without impatience." That you have possessed these qualities the history of the House will demonstrate. It is proven by the fact that the business of the House has not felt the result of concession to solicitation, while no member, as I fully believe, has ever complained of personal treatment.

Sir, I could continue with this review of the requisites of an ideal presiding officer, but what I have already said is sufficient to satisfy you that we feel that you have filled the public duties of your office with the same propriety that you have conducted your personal intercourse with the members.

I can only say in closing that in holding up this ideal I had no fear of the comparison. No better tribute can be paid to worth than this favorable comparison with the ideal. We are a hundred men of abilities filling the duties we are here to perform, but the vanity of no member has ever led him to believe he could improve upon our Speaker, but all have willingly and gladly given way to an earnest desire to emulate. Among the profitable memorials we take with us is the recollection of the fairness, the decision, and the dignity of our Speaker.

Mr. Redfern spoke as follows:

MR SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE—After five months of arduous labor as Legislators we find ourselves on the eve of final adjournment.

Our session has been a notable one in several respects.

Our first action in making yourself, Mr. Speaker, our presiding officer by an unanimous vote is without precedent in the history of the State.

We fully recognize the fact, that you brought to our service the ripe experience, mature judgment and executive ability which has made it possible for this body to transact more business in the same length of time than has ever before been transacted in a Michigan Legislature.

To your uniform courtesy and fair mindedness is largely due the credit that no schisms have been formed and no animosities engendered during this session.

Earnest discussions have been had, for we recognize the fact that honest, earnest men can, and do differ in opinion.

But tonight, Mr. Speaker, we cannot, do not differ.

But with one accord we desire to honor ourselves by paying tribute to the man who has honored us by presiding over our deliberations for the past five months, and I believe, sir, that I voice the sentiment of every member of this body when I tell you that when you lay down the Speaker's gavel you will carry into your private life, not only the best wishes, but the unalloyed respect and admiration of the members of the House of Representatives of the Legislature of 1895.

Mr. Smith spoke as follows:

MR. SPEAKER—Those of us from the northern latitudes of our State have some reputation of standing together on any proposition. I am mindful that our new found friends sometime forget to add, stand together for the right; but be that as it may, I can assure you that I endorse, not in mercantile phrase, "without recourse," but heartily all that was said by the distinguished Representative from the iron hills of our northwestern border. Neither these nor other tokens of many times their value can more than faintly express our appreciation of the splendid manner in which you have conducted the proceedings of this House. Our approval of your unerring judgment and your impartial treatment of all questions, and especially of all members.

In the years that are to come we bespeak for you and will admirably follow the brilliancy of the useful and splendid course upon which you have so worthily entered.

Criticisms and lampoons have been frequently leveled at the floor of this House, but no evil report even has ever been directed at your honorable chair. Your office has been the diamond setting of this House, scintillating light in all directions.

As you lay your future course should any service be desired at the northern extremity of our commonwealth, despatch your messenger as usual and it will have prompt attention.

And as you march along with integrity to success and renown, when your days' works are done and you witness the shimmering light of the beautiful aurora that so often lights up the northern shores of our great State, remember that with such a glow, with such intensity, beat our hearts for your welfare and for the happiness of the inestimable partner of your joys and successes to whom I would remark, sotto voce, that as you will be transferred to new stations of preferment, so may the diamond be reset and become the fitting adornment of a queenly brow.

Mr. Moore spoke as follows:

And now as this Legislature will in a few more hours be no more, I am sure that each and every member will leave for his home to answer to his constituents for his conduct during this session. And I believe, Mr. Speaker, that each and every one of us will say, that the large amount of business transacted in the short time taken by and used this session is greatly due to you, Mr. Speaker. And now, Mr. Speaker, I am sure that each and every member heartily wishes to our Speaker and his family the unbounded success and happiness in the future as they have been blessed with in the past, and on behalf of the members of this House say to you, Mr. Speaker, God bless you and your family in the future, is the wish of the members of the House of Representatives 1895.

It also gives me great pleasure to add a few words in connection with the kind and feeling words already uttered out of high respect which we all have for you Mr. Speaker, who have ever been considerate, careful, honest, upright and most impartial in your actions upon the floor of this House. I believe, sir, that there is not one member upon the floor of this House who can say that he has been treated by our Speaker in any other way. We have done much more business during this term of the Legislature than any other during the same length of time, which has largely been due to the fact that he has carefully and impartially performed the arduous and important duties imposed upon him.

Mr. Foote then addressed the Speaker in extempore remarks on behalf of the messenger boys, who conveyed a silver fruit dish to the Speaker's desk in token of their regard.

The Speaker made reply as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE—This is the first time I have permitted members to have the floor when no question was before the House; but tonight I have been so much enraptured and fascinated with your kind and eloquent words, and hearing no objection, all parliamentary rules have for a time been forgotten.

I feel that no words of mine can adequately express my feelings, but I cannot refrain from expressing, though in a defective form, my thanks to you my friends.

This is somewhat of a surprise to me, and I was about to say that the worth, magnificence and beauty of your gifts are unexpected, but upon reflection I am reminded that your action at this time is in complete harmony with the generous and magnanimous treatment you have given me even since we convened.

Your generous actions and fraternal language coming from the Republican majority and Democrat minority unanimously, are extremely gratifying to me I assure you.

To be elected by this House without a dissenting voice, and after a service of five months, to have such a declaration of your confidence and good will is a compliment of which any man might be proud, and I assure you I feel elated but not arrogant, as I am satisfied I owe much of this success to you.

That I have been able to preside at almost every session and in a manner to meet with your unanimous approval, and to have decided the multiplicity of complicated parliamentary questions which have arisen during the session without any discord or contention, or even an appeal from any of my rulings, I attribute to no signal or remarkable ability upon my part, but to a kind Providence who has given me health and strength and to your kindness and forbearance.

And I will say that no successful candidate for the speakership was ever given a more hearty and cordial support by the unsuccessful aspirants for this position than myself.

The able gentlemen who were candidates for the speakership, one and all, have treated me with uniform kindness and courtesy, they have not been critical and have always been ready and willing to approve and commend.

The State of Michigan has never been better represented upon either the republican or democratic side than in the present House, and there never was such a well behaved, decorous and gentlemanly democratic minority in this or any legislative hall. The chair has broken several gavels, but the disorder and the noise has always been caused by the majority or by the third house.

I have endeavored to bring about a short and business-like session.

I have stood here for five months and have almost daily looked into your intelligent and friendly faces, and now I regret that the session is about to close and our pleasant associations are about to be sundered. We will probably never all assemble again in this or any other hall, but I assure you that so long as I live the list of ninety-nine good men and true commencing with "The gentleman from Eaton, Mr. Allen," and concluding with "The gentleman from Washtenaw, Mr. Wortley," will ever be fresh and green in my mind, and I will always be interested in the welfare of each and all of you.

You bring me these beautiful and valuable offerings of gold, silver and diamonds, which I will ever prize, but their paramount value will lie in the fact that they will ever recall each of you to mind and the golden opinions you have expressed here tonight which will ever sparkle and glitter like beautiful and priceless gems upon the silver bells of memory.

May God bless you and yours and may I meet each and all of you in the near future.

I hope each of you will permit me to shake your hand before you go. Again I thank you and say God bless you.

I cannot close without a word of thanks to the messenger boys in behalf of myself and Mrs. Gordon for their beautiful gift and that their action is a complete surprise to me. The sad features of this parting was brought forcibly to mind this morning by the boys' remarks. Every day as I have entered the hall from my room I have met the boys in line at the door, looked into their bright faces and received their kind greetings. When I met them this morning some of them said, "Mr. Speaker, this is the last time we will line up." The remarks brought a pang of regret to my heart and I regret that we must part. You have been good boys and have served the State well.

It has been said that "the child is father to the man." Meaning that the child, the boy, is father to the man which he is to be himself, that his environments, his thoughts, his hopes, and his education all tend to mould and form the character and life of the man. The whole career of a man is influenced by and permeated with the influences of his youth.

I trust your surroundings and associations here have been beneficial and elevating and will have a good effect upon your future lives.

Your good friend, the gentleman from Kalamazoo, Mr. Foote, has referred to you as young Americans.

In conclusion I will say—

Stand up my young Americans,
Stand firmly on the earth,
Where noble deeds and mental power
Give titles over birth.

Be good, loyal, patriotic citizens, and if I can ever befriend you, do not fail to call upon your friend from Midland.

Again thanking you I wish you God speed.

F. C. CHAMBERLAIN,

Chairman.

Report accepted and committee discharged. ~

On motion of Mr. Chamberlain,

The several bills were laid on the table.

To the Honorable Members of the House of Representatives of the State of Michigan:

GENTLEMEN—Your committee charged with the duty of investigating the State Board of Health, under a resolution of your honorable body, adopted April 12, 1895, respectfully submit the testimony and the following report of their findings, and ask to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

THE FINDINGS.

A majority of your committee, after listening to the testimony, and carefully weighing all the evidence adduced, respectfully report the following as their conclusions:

1. We find that the charges against the State Board of Health as set forth have not been proved, in substance or in spirit, in general or in particular. And we characterize them as unfounded, and undoubtedly prompted by ill-will; and so far as made on the floor of the House they must have been the result of deception practiced upon members.

2. We find that the charges of inefficiency, extravagance, etc., made against the secretary of the board are not true. They were substantiated only by the testimony of two witnesses who were obviously prejudiced and who had recently left the employ of the board with threats of vengeance.

3. We find that the charge of plagiarism against the secretary was disproved.

4. We find that the charge that the secretary dominates and controls the board, and holds his office for life, is not true. The secretary does not hold office differently from many other faithful officials in this State. He has served the board and the people efficiently, and has been long retained in office, but he can be discharged at any regular meeting of the board for cause, by a majority vote of the members.

5. We find that the charge that the secretary has purchased useless and expensive instruments is not sustained. The instruments were ordered by the unanimous vote of the board. One of them has proved of great service, and the other it is believed will yet do so.

6. We find that the charge that the work of the board is far behind is not true. The routine work of the secretary's office seems to be up to date. The supplemental reports to the annual reports, which contain the matter of present interest to the people, have been published and distributed up to and including a portion of the present year, 1895. The regular annual report of the secretary, which contains the tabular and statistical matter is delayed. This is claimed by the secretary to be caused by lack of clerical force in the office sufficient to do the regular work and at the same time to do the additional work required under act 47, laws of 1893, to keep out cholera and other dangerous diseases. Work on that subject has now ceased, and the regular work is again being brought up.

7. We find that the secretary has not abused his office by using the time of the clerks in the preparation of literary articles for private use.

8. We find that the secretary has not neglected his official duties, nor used his time in office hours for work on private matters. On the contrary, the secretary seems to have devoted more time to his official work than is customary with the heads of departments of the State government. He is enthusiastically devoted to the advancement of the cause of sanitation, and, apparently, his colleagues on the board are inspired with like enthusiasm.

9. The charge of extravagance is not sustained. The appropriation for the use of the board is too small to admit of extravagance. The results attained in proportion to the outlay compare most favorably with those of any State board of health.

10. Finally, your committee find that the Michigan State Board of Health as at present organized is one of the most useful and worthy of the departments of our State government. Through it the people have received the unrequited and unselfish labors of distinguished citizens of our State who stand preëminent among the sanitarians of the country. The board has attained a renown second to none among all similar organizations in the world. It has organized and developed a public-health service in this State second to none in efficiency, and which has added to the health, life, happiness and prosperity of our people. It has materially reduced sickness and deaths from several preventable causes, and it is a demonstrable fact that these labors have resulted in an actual money saving to the people of this State, many fold more than their cost.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed)

W. R. EDGAR.

CHARLES HOLDEN.

The testimony taken in the matter of the investigation of the State Board of Health is so voluminous that the committee has not, and had not, sufficient time to set forth the reasons upon which their findings are based, and are therefore confined to a mere statement of them.

I cannot concur in the first, fourth and sixth findings of the majority of the committee, nor in their statement that the charges against the Board of Health were the result only of the ill-will and prejudice of two ex-employees who left the employ of that board with threats of vengeance. Nor do I consider the excuse given for not issuing any annual report since 1892 as required by law a valid one. From the evidence adduced, I have reached the further conclusion that the secretary of the Board of Health should not be a member thereof, and that his term of office should be a definite one.

A. C. COOK.

Report accepted and committee discharged.

Mr. Ware moved to discharge the committee of the whole from the further consideration of

Senate bill No. 306 (file No. 110), entitled

A bill to amend sections 23 and 24 of act No. 135 of the public acts of 1885, entitled "An act to amend, revise and consolidate the laws organizing asylums for the insane and regulating the care and management thereof, and of the inmates therein, and to repeal act 164, laws of 1859, also act 194, laws of 1877, also act 91, laws of 1873, and the acts amendatory thereto, also act 172, laws of 1873," approved June 3, 1885;

Which motion prevailed.

On motion of Mr. Ware,

The rules were suspended, two-thirds of all the members voting therefor, and the bill was put upon its immediate passage.

The bill having been read a third time and the question being upon its passage, pending the taking of the vote thereon,

Mr. J. T. Campbell moved to amend the bill by striking out in line 17, section 23, the word "shall" and inserting the words "may in his discretion" in lieu thereof;

Which motion did not prevail, two-thirds of all the members present not voting therefor.

Mr. J. B. Campbell moved to further amend the bill by striking out in line 135, the words "and affixed the seal of said probate court;"

Which was withdrawn.

The question being on the passage of the bill,

The bill was then not passed, a majority of all the members elect not voting therefor, by yeas and nays, as follows:
